

Origami

*Brain Injury
Rehabilitation Center*

Origami is the result of a unique alliance between Michigan State University and Peckham Incorporated. Michigan State University provides its expertise in medicine and rehabilitation, while Peckham provides expertise in residential management and vocational training with an emphasis on returning the people we serve to appropriate vocational and community functioning. For those who have experienced a brain injury, Origami means individual achievement, motivation, and recognition...an unfolding of potential!

The Origami program is located on 34 acres of land, nestled 5 miles from the Michigan State University Campus on Sandhill Road in Mason, Michigan. The residential building resembles a large ranch style farm home, complete with nature trails on the grounds. But the real beauty of Origami lies inside, where new lives unfold in a unique, individually-focused program of clinically effective, cost-efficient care.
