OVERVIEW

Origami's vision therapy improves visual-motor and visual-perceptual-cognitive deficits by enhancing the brain's control over eye movement, tracking, and processing. Our trained occupational and physical therapists collaborate with optometrists, ophthalmologists, and neuro-visual optometrists to create personalized treatment plans and exercises targeting dizziness, hand-eye coordination, visual motor integration, double vision, headaches, visual processing deficiencies, and more.

WHO WE SERVE

Origami's vision therapy services cater to individuals of all ages and diagnoses. Our experts specialize in addressing visual processing skills crucial for learning and reading difficulties in children. We also assist those with binocular vision problems like strabismus, amblyopia, and convergence insufficiency. Moreover, we offer valuable support to individuals recovering from brain injuries or concussions, as well as athletes seeking to improve their visual skills, including depth perception and eye-hand coordination. Additionally, we provide relief and techniques for optimal visual ergonomics to alleviate visual stress and computer vision syndrome. Lastly, we are dedicated to helping older adults maintain and enhance their visual abilities amid age-related changes.

PARTNERING IN CARE

Our team collaborates with external optometrists, ophthalmologists, and neuro-visual optometrists to develop and implement customized treatment plans.

COST

We are here to help individuals navigate the funding process and accept most insurances. Our admissions team can help answer any questions and assist exploring other options if needed.
